As a state legislator, Congresswoman Halvorson built a reputation for being a strong advocate for women's health issues and for Illinoisans' access to affordable, quality health care. She led the fight to pass a first-in-the nation bill to provide seniors and the disabled with access to affordable prescription drugs through the Illinois General Assembly. Congresswoman Halvorson is dedicated to helping more Americans access better health care and cut wasteful administrative costs through utilization of technology that will cut waste and prevent medical mistakes.
